INCREASED RETENTION

- The program is designed to develop women at the early to mid-level of their careers, where the highest drop-off occurs within organisations.
- Organisations benefit from increased efficiency, drive and retention as employees feel valued when their organisation invests in them.
- Typically, organisations focus and invest a lot to attract diverse talent, however, if they're unable to retain them, the cost to the business can be 2-3 times the employee's salary.

IMPROVED ATTRACTION OF HIGH-CALIBRE FEMALE TALENT

- Future female talent is attracted to the organisation due to opportunities for development.
- 76% of people believe a diverse and inclusive workplace culture is imperative for the employer they choose to work for.

GREATER ADVANCEMENT OF FEMALE LEADERS

- With emerging female talent staying longer at the organisation and being equipped with the tools to lead effectively, they are more likely to advance within the organisation, contributing to higher numbers of female senior leaders and improved female representation across all levels.

What they're saying

This is an exceptional program. Engaging, interesting and full of genuinely useful frameworks and advice. Each of the participants had different reasons for attending the course and different things they wanted out of it. I think there was enough content and space in the discussion for us to get exactly what we wanted, and a whole lot that we didn't know we needed!

Customer Success Manager, Federal Government

It was a great experience being a part of the Emerging Leaders Program. The program structure gave us opportunities to connect and learn from like-minded women. There were several practical tools that were discussed to help us take charge of our careers as individuals, managers, or peers. I also uncovered personal blindspots that we have when dealing with people. I would highly recommend this program.

Senior Solution Consultant, ADOBE

Their Emerging Leaders program was very strong: a perfect blend of self-reflection, learnings, group discussions, 1:1 coaching, all connected thanks to the action-oriented framework to help you build your strategy and journey. Great facilitator and a great group. Highly recommend!
